In New York, when the facts about Auschwitz came through.
(Manuscript, 1942)

Our parents were sent there !
Their visas were late ...
Now we sit in New York
and we sleep in a bed
and we are the strangest beings.

We live, just like other people do,
we work, we laugh -
we go to the movies.
We have our living rooms -
music and books -
and friends, yes, friends we have too.

We discuss politics, like you.

*Our books are safe
but our minds are free
And at the moment of our last breath must bring our lives into our minds are free
moment of our
last breath
in hour of death.
